A POLITICAL SUICIDE

Unable to Secure His Friend's Appointment, He Hangs Himself.

RESULT OF A POSTOFFICE FIGHT.

Oscar N. Kyle Yields to Disappointment After a Stubborn

DISPUTE WITH TWO ADMINISTRATIONS, Which Costs Rim Thomsands of Dollars and the Loss His Renson.

The suicide of Oscar N. Kyle, a prominent Massachusetts business man, brings to light a strange story. After struggling with two administrations to secure an apsubmit to defeat. This so preyed upon his mind that he hanged himself. ISPECIAL TELEGRAN TO THE DISPATCE. WASHINGTON, October 19 .- The suicide by hanging of Oscar N. Kyle, of Florence, Mass., Treasurer of the Florence Machine Company, has furnished food for the political gossips for the past few days. It is not often that a politician who is working in the interest of somebody else hangs himself because his friend is not appointed to the office sought for, Shortly before Grover Cleveland sought what he termed "the much coveted seclusion of private life," Oscar N. Kyle came to the Capital with a petition for the appointment of Robert M. Branch, as postmaster of the village of Florence, a suburb of Northampton, Mass. Kyle, although a Republican of many years standing and a liberal con-tributor when the "fat" was fried from the New England manufacturers during the last campaign, desired this Democrat appointed from business motives, believing that as Branch had had considerable experience in postoffice affairs he was the most suitable man for the place. Kyle's choice was at once autagonized by the "Republi-can ring" of Northsmpton, and there soon aprang up in the quaint New England village one of those struggles which character izes the politics of small towns. The two newspapers of the village printed column after column on the subject under such lurid headlines as only country editors can evolve, and added very materially to the

THE POLITICAL POT. Believing that President Cleveland would at once recognize the justness of his petition, Mr. Kyle openly defied the ring, and posted off to Washington to gain the Presidental

Upon his arrival here he put up at the Willard, hired an expert typewriter operator and opened his campaign. From early dawn until long after the lights in News-paper Row were extinguished, the click of the typewriter was heard, as letter after letter was written to the various men of politi-cal prominence throughout New England, requesting their support in the battle royal, which he was waging. The New England correspondents were kept fully posted as to the progress of the fight, and Washington specials were numerous.

As in mostly hotly contested postoffice rows, the appointment was not a particularly desirable one, the office not paying more than $1.600 per year, of which one-half was expended in clerk hire, etc., but Kyle, in the support of his hobby, spent money with a lavish band. HE REFUSED TO YIELD.

One morning it was announced in the comic paper of the realm, the Congressional Record, that Robert M. Branch had been appointed postmaster of the town of Florence, d that the appointment had been sent to the Senate for confirmation. Now came the inning of the "ring." It might not be able to prevent the appointment, but it would hang the case up in the Senate until March 4. Letters poured resentatives, demanding that the appoint ment be not confirmed, and painting in strong colors the awful disasters which overtake the Grand Old Party should a Democrat be appointed and confirmed for The days sped on until the 4th of March was at hand, and the nomination was as yet unconfirmed. Kyle, undismayed, bobbed up again, this time with an appeal addressed to the incoming President.

HIS FINAL DEFEAT. Again the same ground was gone over. The "ring" had by this time put up a candidate for the position, whose chief recom-mendation outside of his Republicanism was his record as a soldier, and this card was played for all it was worth. Some of the interviews held with Postmaster General Wanamaker, were very interesting. Upon one occasion, impressed with the honest, straightforward manner of Kyle, Mr. Wanamaker said, "Mr. Kyle, you have convinced me that your candidate is the proper man for the place. Convince your Congressman as you have me, bring me his recommendation, and I shall make out the papers at once." All Kyle's eloquence failed to secure the coveted recommendation from his Representative, the candidate of the ring received his commission, and the fight was officially at an end. Kyle returned home a disappointed man, almost broken down by overwork, poorer by some $3,000 in purse, but with great experience in machine politics. Many friends had been alieuated from him by his course. Financial troubles overtook him. Despondency, occasioned by his ill fortune, induced the dreaded disease paresis, and in a moment of insanity he ended all his

DOUGLASS ON THE NEGRO PROBLEM. Kyle was a handsome man, of magnetic and stirring temperament, and was a successful type of the successful "Down-Easter." He became quite well known in Washington society during his sojourn here, and few figures upon the avenue commanded more attention. When Fred Douglass, now Minister to Hayti, first appeared on the lec-ture stage, Kyle acted as his director. In speaking of the colored problem one day Mr. Kyle related an incident which has probably never appeared in print. He said: "During the New England tour of Douglass I once put to him the query which was agitating all of us in the 'old reconstruction' days: 'What will become of the negro?' To which he replied: 'If the col-'What will become of the ored man can keep up to the procession of will succeed. If not, let the white race he

The forty-fifth anniversary of the going out of the church to meet the Lord in October, 1844, will be observed by the Adventiaus of Virgunia from October 5 to October 22 (inclusive), 1888. This meeting is called because the evidences from the prophetic word warrant us in expecting our Lord's return at this time. The meeting will be held at Screamersville, Va., where the Virginia mission tent is now pitched and will remain. All our brethren who are looking for the Lord and desire to meet with us are invited. Brethren coming from the North will come via Pennsylvania Railroad from New York, leaving foot of Desbrosses street at 9:15 F. M. This train reaches Fredericksburg, Va., at 7A. Brethren from the North bringing tents will please correspond with E. E. Pendleton, Fredericksburg, giving size of tent and lumber necessary. Brethren and sisters of Virginia will see that our table is suspiled with food, as board at this meeting is free. Anyone wisbing to help this meeting is free. Anyone wisbing to help this meeting with money (and it is needed) can correspond with A. A. Canaday, Fredericksburg, Va. A considerable delegation of Connecticut Adventists, headed by Elder R. C. Brown, of New Britain, have joined the Virginia watchers, and are now making the hills and vales of Screamersville resound with their hymns.

This is the way the Screamersville delegation have figured out the time of the advent: Matthew xxiv:15 speaks of the setting up of "the abomination of desolation."

This is thought by the Screamersville delegation to refer to the establishing of the temporal power of the Pope, 854 A.D., when the third enemy of that power was defeated (Daniel 5). In Daniel xii., 11 and 12, a blessing is propounced on him that waits blessing is pronounced on him that waits from the setting up of "the abomination of desolution" until the end of 1,335 days. Adding 1,335 years to 554 gives 1889, the present year. This particular time of the year is selected because it is believed that, as the crucifixion occurred at the passover and the gift of the Holy Ghost at Pentecost, the second advent must take place at either one or the other of the two autumn festivals, the Feast of the Atonement or the Fesst of the Tabernacles The former falls on the 10th day of the 7th month, or in our chronology, October 5, and the latter from October 15 to 22.

A MINING COMPANY IN TROUBLE. The Treasurer Refuses to Allow the Boo

to be Audited.

Boston, October 19 .- There is a decided embarrassment in the affairs of the Honerine Mining Company, of Utah, having an office at No. 113 Devonshire street. The auditors, Mr. Howe and Charles Keveney, have repeatedly, during the past two months, requested the books from the treasurer, J. H. Murray, but it is said that they have been stoutly refused their lawful right to investigate the stand-ing of the company. Mr. Keveney, as a last resort, recently appealed to one of the heaviest stockholders of the company. Wilson W. Fay, a stock broker at No. 7 State street. At a meeting of the stockholders at Portland Me., some time ago, Mr. Fay was instrumental in the appointment of a committee to investigate the affairs of the company. It was thought by were not all right, and an investigation was necessary and demanded. Mr. Fay said

I have decided no longer to allow certain men holding the books of the Honerine Mining Company to refuse to place them in the hands of Mr. Keveney, the auditor. They have buildozed us long enough. I, as a holder of 40,000 shares of the stock, demand that the report of certain significant rumors be proved true or false. Many believe there is trouble, and if any State prison offense has been cut.

The case was reported to Superintendent of Police Small this morning, and the department will render all the assistance possible. The Treasurer, Mr. Murray, is employed as a clerk in the office of Bradley. Hastings & Co., the Fort Hill square iron Greater Luck for a Tramp Printer Than He Can Comprehend.

ISPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.] NEW LONDON, CONN., October 19 .- A few months ago Fred B. He recognized the tramp printer who had worked on the Bulletin, and communicated with the family. He received a letter in reply, enfamily. He received a letter in reply, enclosing $15 with which to pay the young mother lives, as soon as he should again appear in the Bulletin office. Two weeks ago the printer turned up in Mr. Manning's office, but not in a condition to understand the message that the gentleman had for him. Before he could be got in condition, he left town, and although he was recaptured again and again, yet he was recaptured again and again, vet he could not be persuaded to take the $15 and go to his mother, a home and a fortune. A few days later, however, he promised to go to the home he had not visited for years. He kept his word, and is now in New York. He has received a payment of $6, 000 already due. His annual income from his father's estate is $2,800. His mother has $75,000 worth of property, and this wan-dering sot proves to be an only son and the sole heir to over $150,000.

LABOR'S FORCES MUST UNITE.

The Watchword of the Coming Pederation Convention in Boston.

NEW YORK, October 19 .- The American Federation of Labor has issued the official call for its fourth annual convention, to be held in Boston on December 10. The circular hints at the unification of the scattered forces of labor, and congratulates the feder ation on withstanding the combined attacks of "capitalists and politicians," and especially the "secret machinations of conspirators within the very cordon of the camp of labor," meaning the Knights of Labor. "The time has now arrived," the circular says, "to openly, caimly and fearlessly assert the claims of labor." On the subject of the eight-hour movement the circular says: "It now becomes the mission of the Boston Convention to transform the aritation which has beation on withstanding the combined attacks to transform the agitation which has be-come world wide, into an organized move-ment for its realization." A WIFE WORTH $500. At Least That is What a Minneapolis Citizes Sold His Helpmeet For-Christian Science the Cause of the Trouble MINNEAPOLIS, MINN., October 19 .-Many years ago, George Weickoff took unto himself a wife. Years rolled on and George eventally went to work in the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul shops at South Minneapolis. Both husband and wife by time were past the prime of life. They resided in a comfortable dwelling house in the vicinity of Fort avenue and Lake street. The husband continued to ply his trade, but his wife joined the ranks of Christian Scientists and began practicing Christian Science healing. She was so imbued with the spirit of the doctrine she practiced that she finally found her husband was not her "soul's affinity."

At first the exact whereabouts of her "kindred soul" did not become revealed to her, but not for long was she allowed to her, but not for long was she allowed to grope in darkness. As a light from heaven the truth flashed upon her, and she found her "soul's affinity" in the person of one Henry Bratsch. Henry is no longer a youth, having passed his 40th year. By trade he is a machinist, and works beside George Weikoff in the railroad shops of South Minneapolis. He is "well heeled," being reported as owning property valued at $40,000. Most of it lies in the city limits of St. Paul. He boarded at 3028 Fort of St. Paul. He boarded at 3028 Fort street, South Minnespolis, with the Weikoffs.

Although Henry has passed the age of sentiment his tellow workman's wife, who rejoices in the name of Henrika, cast the spells of her Christian science over him and he fell a ready victim to her wiles. He became, or claimed to become, a believer in this strange doctrine. The truth suddenly dawned upon him that Henrika had the other half of his soul. The truth had not long been revealed to them before they be-came "two souls with but a single thought."

AN OBSTACLE REMOVED. The only difficulty in the way of the con summation of their faith presented itself in the inoffensive husband. But now this trifle has been removed, and they are free to prac-tice their beliefs, so far as George, the hus-band, is concerned. Henrika Weikoff owned a house and lot on Fort street, and to satisfy her husband she mortgaged this property for the sum of $900, $500 of which she paid her husband, he agreeing to sign a deed of separation releasing her from all matrimonial control in consideration of the sum above mentioned, and yesterday Henry Bratsch paid over $500 to Weikoff. All the necessary papers were drawn up by a well-known attorney of this city. As security Bratsch took the mortgage on Mrs. Weikoff's property, and all the parties are now happy.

Mrs. Weikoff has two grown-up children. One of them is a young man, a prominent member of a secret society. Mrs. Weikoff will shortly institute proceedings for a di-vorce from the legal husband, and the climax of this strange story will occur when the marriage bells ring on the occasion of the marriage of Henry Bratsch to Henrika Weikoff. All the parties to this strange a fair were interviewed this afternoon and a mitted its truth.

INPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.1 LOUISVILLE, KY., October 19. - 1 strange marriage, which may end one of name as that of a disgusted young the bloodiest and most celebrated feuds ever known in Kentucky, occurred this morning in Rowan county. At Pine Spring, at 8 o'clock, Grace Martin and Frank Tolliver were wedded. They are among the few survivors of the respective sides in the Tolliver-Martin feud. Grace is the youngest sister of John Martin, who was killed by Craig Tolliver and his brothers. Frank is the youngest brother of Craig Tolliver, who in turn was slaughtered by the other side.

Neither is over 20 years of age. While the feud was in active progress Grace and Frank met and fell in love, and by exercising the greatest care conducted their courtship in secrecy. A few days ago they announced to their relatives that they intended to be married. There was much opposition on account of the bitter hostility between the two houses, which has cost 20 lives, but the young people in-sisted, and the neighbors said it would end the feud, so this morning the wedding was celebrated with great ceremony. The surviving members of the rival houses attended, and after the marriage agreed that they would fight no more.

WASHINGTON, October 19 .- The Missis sippi River Commission has been furnished, through the War Department, with a copy of a dispatch from Minister Denby upon the latest breach in the banks of the Yellow river, China, together with some observations on the ravages of that stream. The dispatch is dated Pekin, August 31, and states that the river has broken its banks again, this time at Chang-Chin-Haien. By this new breach the damage done in the province of Shontunga, the dispatch says, is enormous and irreparable. The inundated country will be rendered useless for agricultural purposes by the deposit of silt. It is said that 50 years must elapse before lands so inundated can be cultivated again. The first apparent result of the Czar's visit to Berlin is almost an entire cessation of war Much has been written about the ravages, says Minister Denby, caused by the overflows of this river. It seems likely that China can never adopt a radical system of prevention. Such a system would cost at least 50,000,000 taels. The Yellow river is 2000,000 taels. Six Russian artisans especially attached to the Czar's retinue examined the sulls, flooring and furniture of the embassy, and inserted grating bars at tops and bottoms of the chimneys. Sentries were also stationed upon the roof, apparently to prevent explosives being thrown down the flues. The Berlin secret police escorted the Russian detectives as far as the frontier.
